

---

Kramnik - Morozevich, Mexico City Wch 2007, 1-0

Posted by satrancokulu - 2007/09/16 08:07

---

1. Nf3 Nf6 2. c4 e6 3. g3 d5 4. d4 dxc4 5. Bg2 a6 6. Ne5 Bb4+ 7. Nc3 Nd5 8. O-O O-O 9. Qc2 b5 10. Nxd5 exd5 11. b3 c6 12. e4 f6 13. exd5 fxe5 14. bxc4 exd4 15. dxc6 Be6 16. cxb5 d3 17. c7 Qd4 18. Qa4 Nd7 19. Be3 Qd6 20. Bxa8 Rxa8 21. Bf4 Qf8 22. b6 Ne5 23. Bxe5 Qf3 24. Qd1 Qe4 25. b7 Rf8 26. c8=Q Bd5 27. f3

Kramnik - Morozevich 1-0

Post edited by: satrancokulu, at: 2007/09/16 08:11

Post edited by: Sciurus, at: 2007/09/16 11:32

---

Re:Kramnik - Morozevich, Mexico City Wch 2007, 1-0

Posted by Sciurus - 2007/09/17 15:41

---

I watched this game live at ChessWorld and Kramnik's knight sacrifice in move 13 seemed to come as a big surprise to everybody. This game was certainly the one I enjoyed most in this tournament so far, even though I had a hard time understanding it (and still have). There are many moves from both sides that simply seem to be beyond my comprehension.

On the other hand, I watched the post-game press conference (you can find it at ICC), and it seemed that even Kramnik did not calculate the sac through. He just said that it felt right or something like this.

---